Spotting a camera brings out different reactions from different people. Some basically ignore it, going on with their business: (upper left) Jamesha Key and Dean Bittner; (upper right) Shauntel Chism; (center) Jodi Curtis and Irene Clemente. Others try to hide from its all-seeing eye: (upper center) Jon Villanueva, Adam Crampton, and Ed Griffor. Then there are those who meet it head-on: (center left) Andre Stidhum. They might make faces: (lower right) Jason Wrenn, or simply smile: (below) David Lively, Tyler Keene, Sarah Ray, Andy Centellas, and Michelle Stahl. The camera catches it all.
